Print Works Plant Now Has Attendance Award Flying

Some Departments Showing Competition For Second Month

After solving technical difficulties in getting the new attendance pennant properly hooked to the flag-pole, Proximity Print Works is proudly showing its award for best attendance. The Print Works is already well out in front toward winning the pennant for the second month of the contest. Second best in attendance percentage is Revolution, only a few points behind Print Works.

At White Oak, Second Shift Dyeing is displaying the American flag in recognition of 98.67 per cent attendance. Overseer John Armfield and Second Hand Burly Yow say they intend to keep it if possible. However, they are getting some real competition from First Shift Carding. Third Shift Dyeing and Third Shift Carding.

At Revolution, where Second Shift

Napping won last month's flag. Dyeing and Bleaching both first and second shifts. Second Shift Carding, First Shift Shipping and First Shift Napping are all above the ninety per cent mark to keep in the race for next month's flag.

At Proximity, where Ransome Thigpen's Shipping room took the honors for last month, both First and Second Shift Dyeing are showing a good record, with First Shift Carding and First Shift Bleaching and Slashing also pushing for first place.

At Print Works, with most departments above ninety per cent, most any group may be able to take the banner from the Napping room, where it is now on display.

Movie At White Oak Next Thursday Night

"Children Of Mars" Will Be
Children's Wartime Problem

A meeting of particular interest to members of this community will be held on Thursday, April 27, at the White Oak Assembly Hall at 8 P.M. Every citizen—particularly those of you who are parents—will want to see the movie, "Children Of Mars," which gives an excellent idea of the problems of children in a war-time world. Every citizen of Greensboro will want to know what is being done here in our own town to solve the problems of these children whose parents are working and who are sometimes left to shift for themselves. And every citizen will want to know what is being done to make Greensboro a healthier, a finer, and a cleaner town in which to live. Mr. Montgomery S. Hill, will be at this meeting prepared to tell you what the agencies of the Community and War Chest are doing about it; how the money which you contribute is being spent; and to answer any of the questions which you may have on the work of the Chest.

This meeting is open to the public and everyone is invited to attend. It is an important meeting that you will not want to miss.

SOME JOB

A writer says that one reason it is so difficult to reduce the number of governmental employees is that when you seek to ascertain the duties of one they are described in language that an ordinary man cannot possibly understand. For example we heard the other day of a mother who had a daughter employed in defense work in Washington and who wrote her to ask just what she was doing. The daughter replied: "I work in the data analysis group of the aptitude-test-sub-unit of the worker analysis section of the division of occupational analysis and manning tables of the Bureau of labor utilization of the War Manpower Commission." Of course, no Congressman would dare cut off a worker like that.

Movie To Be Shown At Schools Next Week

"Last Of The Mohicans"
Will Be Feature, Thursday
And Friday, April 27, 28

The Indians are coming, yes sir, the Indians are coming to our community Thursday and Friday, April 27 and 28. "The Last Of The Mohicans," the great picture from James Fenimore Cooper's book of the same title will be shown at the Caesar Cone and Proximity schools.

Thursday afternoon, April 27, at 2:00 P.M. the picture will be shown at the Proximity school under the sponsorship of the school baseball team and the Y.M.C.A. A complete program of comedy, pictorial and feature will be on schedule.

Friday afternoon at 2:00 P.M. and also Friday night at 7:45, the same program will be shown at the Caesar Cone school under the sponsorship of the Parent-Teachers association and the Y.M.C.A.

The picture has its setting in the year of 1757 at Fort William Henry on the shores of Lake George, while the Fort is being besieged by Montcalm and his force of French soldiers and Huron Indians.

"The Last Of The Mohicans," imbued with the true spirit of colonial America's most glorious days, alternates between tender romance and scenes of barbaric warfare. It immortalizes the heroic struggles of the valiant men and women who carved a new nation out of the wilderness.

Local employees last Friday heard Sir Frank Platt, Manchester, England, cotton controller for Great Britain and Northern Ireland, tell of the problems that have confronted the textile industry in England since the start of the war. Great Britain's cotton industry, which ranks third in war effort importance, is badly short of labor, he declared.

W. O. Community Club Held Meeting Monday

Membership Contest To Continue Through The Month Of May, 1944

The White Oak Community club had its regular monthly meeting Monday evening at the welfare building. Mrs. Frank Graves Jr., presided. Mrs. Millard Leonard conducted the devotional period. Business reports were discussed.

During a social hour the group played Bingo and several prizes were given. The hostesses, Mrs. Millard Leonard, Mrs. J. O. Wheeler, Mrs. Carl Wrenn, and Mrs. Norman Pinkleton served vanilla and chocolate ice cream, with iced cake squares.

Members present were: Mesdames J. Burnside, J. H. Cates, H. A. Morris, Lee Clapp, H. G. Porter, Henry Williams, L. H. Bell, J. O. Wheeler, Millard Leonard, Norman Pinkleton, Garland Flintom, Frank Graves Jr., Taylor Turner and Miss Pearl Wyche.

The club decided to continue the membership contest through May, so let's all get busy working for the prize!

Sir Frank headed the delegation of seven Englishmen who visited here last week end. These representatives of the textile industry of Great Britain are in America to observe production methods and to determine if British cotton labor forces and machinery can be better used for increased production. While here, the group inspected the local Cone Mills.

In describing cotton output conditions, Sir Frank explained that the outbreak of war in 1939 took most of the eligible young men from the spinning and weaving mills, and that labor forces had continued to be reduced to such an extent that one out of every three mills had been completely closed since July, 1941, in an effort to concentrate industry.

England's World War I experience did not show cotton to be as important as it has proven to be in this war. Sir Frank said, pointing out that without cotton, radio equipment cannot operate satisfactorily, and that spindles and looms normally used for hosiery yarns and broadcloth are used now for parachute and flax cloth. He also said that 80 percent of the cotton industry is now manned by women, explaining that the employment of those with home responsibilities has resulted from the younger women going into military service or other industries.

He stated that the women are real heroes, pointing out that many of them, in addition to holding down jobs, must care for their husbands and children, contend with coupon rationing that applies to practically everything, and that they are often called upon to billet servicemen and evacuated children. Some months ago it was decided to register women up to 50 years of age for labor mobilization.

Stating that the normal work week of 48 hours in Great Britain has been increased to 52 hours, Sir Frank said that absenteeism causes only a minute percentage of trouble, and that the cotton industry of England has not had a single element of strike since the war began.

He stated that cases of unnecessary absenteeism were reported to the Ministry of Labor, and that such cases were tried in police court and the absentees fined or sentenced.

He commented with enthusiasm on the assistance that he and his colleagues had received since arriving in Greensboro, and extended a plea on behalf of the cotton industries of both Great Britain and America for maximum production from all employees. He spoke to Proximity employees at Proximity, and to Revolution, White Oak and Print Works employees at White Oak.

The group came here from Charlotte and remained over the week end before going to Danville, Va. Others in the group were E. Cartwright and H. Spibey, of Manchester; A. Hollas, Bolton; J. Walsh, Marple; A. Nae-smith, Accrington; and A. Roberts, Preston.

"When you get to Anzio you waste no time getting off the boat, for you have been feeling pretty much like a clay pigeon in a shooting gallery. But after a few hours in Anzio you wish you were back on the boat."—War correspondent Ernie Pyle.

The Textile Industry In England

The recent visit by representatives of the textile industry of Great Britain, headed by Sir Frank Platt, controller of cotton textiles in England and Northern Ireland, was extremely interesting, particularly in view of the fact that the textile industry in Great Britain has been forced to operate under most difficult conditions.

In the first place, the cotton mills in England are operated eighty per cent by women, and according to our visitors, the age of women averages considerably higher than the average age of the female employees in the textile industry in this section.

It appears also that despite the fact that there is complete black-out in England, which means that the time permitted for shopping is considerably less than shopping time in this country, the absentee problem is nothing like as great as that experienced by industry here in Greensboro and throughout the country. Naturally, there is some absenteeism caused by illness and unusual household obligations. On the other hand, there is practically no unjustifiable absenteeism in the textile industry in that country, and from our visitors, two of whom represented the working group, we learned that in cases of unjustifiable absenteeism, steps are taken to control same. In other words, the Government of England takes steps to correct unjustifiable absenteeism.

On the other hand, our visitors marveled at the efficiency of our machinery and processes and admitted that our accomplishments in that direction far surpass theirs.

Our visitors were primarily seeking information which would enable them to assist their textile industry in getting greater production of vitally needed cotton textiles and to answer all questions and give any information that they could which we might consider of benefit to us. Those of us who had the privilege of hearing and talking to these men were very pleased with our contacts with them and admired their attitude in every respect. Such an exchange of ideas as was had and the opportunity to learn more about our chief ally in the war effort was most invigorating and leads us to the conclusion that more knowledge of our allies, their ways, customs and problems, can serve as a better basis for more effective co-operation in winning the war and developing a more permanent type of postwar relationship.

Essays On Y.M.C.A. Win Special Prizes

As announced last week, the Textorian is publishing below the essays awarded special prizes in the recent contest in the Proximity and Caesar Cone schools which was sponsored by the Cone Memorial Y.M.C.A. in conjunction with the 100th anniversary of the founding of the movement by George Williams.

Many splendid papers were turned in by students of our local schools, with the seventh grades of each school and the Proximity high school participating. The two published here were selected by the judges as best essay among girls and best essay among boys.

Keys To Happiness

by
Barbara Ann Newton
Caesar Cone Seventh Grade

Surely Mr. Williams was looking into the happiness for the young people of the generations to come, when he thought of establishing the Y.M.C.A.

Back in the earlier days, the young people, as well as the old, had to work most of the time, and their opportunities of recreation were few. Even when opportunities did arrive, the means of transportation were so inconvenient that the people were unable to reach these places of amusement and recreation.

Today, we are lucky. Mr. Cone was looking into the future happiness of young people, and he showed his interest, when he gave us a most useful and enjoyable gift, the White Oak Y.M.C.A. Perhaps when I say Mr. Cone was looking into the future happiness of young people, I should say what I mean: Many children were in poor health, and getting bad habits by having no planned recreation. The Y. has made healthful recreation possible for all of us.

Never will I forget the many friends I've met at the Y.M.C.A. A group of us girls get together in the winter, and play basketball in the gym, besides all the other games that we play there. Sometimes we bowl, because the cost is so low. Usually after our games we're tired, so we sit in the lobby, and enjoy ourselves with group singing.

Before going home, after so eventful a night as this, anyone who wishes to do so, can use the Prayer room for her spiritual encouragement: the Biblical room joins the Prayer room, and it is always a joy to me to see all the foreign articles which Mr. Arnold and others have contributed to it. These things, as well as the Educational room, help us to know more about our mysterious world.

In the summer, when the sun is hot, many is the day I have come in from playing tennis on the court at the Y, and dived into the soothing, cool water of the pool, and finished with a free bath.

Back in the good old days, when we went to Camp Herman each summer, the Y. trucks were available. We started off singing, and having fun, which continued throughout our whole camping period.

We have much to be thankful for, when we hear of the one hundred years of service the Y.M.C.A. has given, and the opportunities it will continue to offer. We, here have much to be thankful for, when we think of the happiness and joys that are awaiting us at our own Y.M.C.A.

The Founding of the Y.M.C.A.

by
John Lee Tippet
Caesar Cone Seventh Grade

Long ago in the year 1844 there was a young man named George Williams. He worked in a store. One day during a prayer meeting, he got the idea of forming a little club for young men. So he and a few more young men rented a small room over the store, where they met every week. They called the club the Y.

M.C.A., which, of course, means Young Men's Christian Association. This little group would have Bible Studies and play games, and later light refreshments were served. Soon other people began organizing Y. clubs, and if George Williams could come back today, he would be amazed, as the Y.M.C.A. has now become a world-wide organization and is in every country, except Russia.

For awhile women were forbidden from the Y.M.C.A., but later the Young Women's Christian Association was formed. This is a branch of the Y.M.C.A., and it offers the same recreational activities for the young women and girls as the Y.M.C.A. does the young men and boys.

Today, besides Bible teachings, the Y. also teaches swimming, basketball, football, and various other sports.

The Y.M.C.A. helps the home front in war time by sponsoring courses in Home Nursing and First Aid which are a great help to civilians because so many of our good doctors and nurses are with our fighting men. Also the Y. helps in scrap and paper drives.

Even in peace time they were helping the war cause by making good campers of our boys, as a good camper will usually make a good soldier.

So today we should salute the Y.M.C.A. for being such a great strength and moral builder of American youth. We want to thank the Cone family for bringing the Y. to our villages.

Startling Headline: "Accidents Kill Two American Workers for Every Axis Worker Killed!" For every 100,000 population 86 American workers are killed each year. Wonder if we couldn't better that in 1944?

A court official, after explaining the history of the American Flag to a group of aliens seeking citizenship papers, asked one of them:

Tell me, what flies over the city hall?"

The alien blinked a minute and replied: "Peelins."

The infantry recruit had been bullied by the sergeant for days on end. But his chance came while he was bungling through rifle practice.

"It's about time you knew what a fine sight was," said the sergeant. "Come now, what's a fine sight?"

"A boat crammed full of sergeants," answered the recruit. "On fire four hundred miles from land, in a hurricane."
